

The 2022 Newsday Marching Band Festival came roaring back after a two-year hiatus and our marching band community did not disappoint! For three nights, 38 high school marching bands from across Long Island filled Mitchel Athletic Complex with dramatic presentations, pits that included traditional rock instrumentation, small bands with big sounds, precision kickline and flag demonstrations, gigantic bands with gigantic walls of sound, and so much more. This year also saw the return of the United States Marine Corps Marching Band, which kicked off the festival each night with their precision performance and formations as well as a re-tooled opening. All in all, we couldn't have asked for a more spectacular return for our 58th year. Everyone at Newsday is so proud that The Marching Band Festival continues to be a long-standing tradition for our organization, high schools and the community. "Hats off" to each and every player, staff member and volunteer!
